Programme Overview

Brief outline of the programme

Ancient History and History at Southampton offers you the opportunity to study global history from the Classical World to the present day, in a research environment containing leading experts in a wide range of fields. You will have the opportunity to study and research to a high level, equipping yourself with specialist knowledge in your chosen areas of study. From ancient Egypt to Minoan civilisation, from the conquests of Alexander the Great to the Roman empire, from Roman Britain to the ancient Americas and the Middle East, from ancient philosophy and the biblical world to the rise of Islam, studying Ancient History at Southampton affords you the chance to study topics about which you are already passionate, or to try something entirely new. The study of ancient languages is optional, but you are strongly encouraged to make the most of the opportunities on offer at Southampton to study Latin and Ancient Greek. Studying History will expand your geographical and chronological range even further. The department contains historical experts in regions ranging from Britain and the rest of Europe to the Americas, Australasia, Asia and Africa. Studying Ancient History and History at Southampton therefore affords its students a chance to grapple with and gain an insight into global perspectives on ancient, medieval and modern History in a highly successful research environment.

Your contact hours will vary depending on your module/option choices. Full information about contact hours is provided in individual module profiles.

Learning and teaching

Students at Southampton learn in a variety of ways. Lectures introduce students to the outline of a topic and the debates within it. Small-group seminars offer students the chance to interact with academics and other students in collaborative discussions. Such discussions can help inform and shape the ways in which students then go about writing their essays. Feedback on performance is given through formal and informal one-to-one discussions and through oral and written feedback after submission of a piece of work. Students also get the opportunity to work together collaboratively and to undertake substantial pieces of individual research, most notably with the Level Three dissertation.

Assessment

Ancient History and History uses a range of assessment methods to ensure that students are able to demonstrate they have achieved intended learning outcomes. The most common means of assessment is an essay. Essays offer students the opportunity to demonstrate their use of skills in research and analysis to make their own arguments. Longer pieces of writing, allowing for a greater development of argument, become more common as an undergraduate progresses through his or her studies, and these allow students to formulate their own lines of historical enquiry, using archival material to create significant contributions to historical knowledge. Although they account for less than 50% of the overall degree mark, exams are also taken, in order to assess students' ability to formulate clear, focused and engaging pieces of writing in test conditions. Individual and group oral presentations feature in some modules, including the compulsory Part One Introduction to the Ancient World module. Language modules will focus primarily on assessing skills in reading ancient sources and applying those skills to source analysis.

Please note: As a research-led University, we undertake a continuous review of our programmes to ensure quality enhancement and to manage our resources. As a result, this programme may be revised during a student's period of registration, however, any revision will be balanced against the requirement that the student should receive the educational service expected. Please read our Disclaimer to see why, when and how changes may be made to a student's programme.

Programmes and major changes to programmes are approved through the University's programme validation process which is described in the University's Quality handbook.

Special Features of the programme

Ancient History and History students can choose to go abroad for the first semester of their second part. Ancient History and History (with a Year Abroad) students go abroad for both semester of their third part. Students can choose to study in Europe or beyond. In Europe, our Erasmus partners are: Rennes, Caen and Paris in France; Potsdam and Bayreuth in Germany; Crete and Thessaly in Greece; Cyprus; Malta; Groningen in Netherlands; Bergen in Norway; Wroclaw in Poland; Coimbra in Portugal; Madrid, Sevilla and Barcelona in Spain and Zagreb in Croatia. Our non-European partners for Study Abroad are based in the United States, Canada, Hong Kong, Japan, South Korea, and Australia. More details on these destinations can be found on the University website under 'Faculty-wide programmes' and 'University-wide programmes'.

You have the opportunity to study abroad for either a semester or a full year as part of this programme. Students on the Year Abroad programme will spend Part Three of their programme at one of the Faculty's partner universities and will continue with Part Four of the curriculum upon return to Southampton in their fourth year. Students who choose to spend a semester abroad will do so in their second year and will continue their Part Two curriculum at the partner university, Part Three of the programme will be completed at Southampton.

The interdisciplinary nature of Ancient History and History means that a range of further special features are available to you. Depending on the optional modules you choose, you can gain experience of archaeological fieldwork, fieldtrips and take part in study tours.

Please note: As a research-led University, we undertake a continuous review of our programmes to ensure quality enhancement and to manage our resources. As a result, this programme may be revised during a student's period of registration; however, any revision will be balanced against the requirement that the student should receive the educational service expected. Programmes and major changes to programmes are approved through the University's programme validation process which is described in the University's Quality handbook.

Educational Aims of the Programme

The aims of the programme are to:
·	provide you with an understanding of the central theoretical and methodological issues involved in the study of History and Ancient History;
·	develop your knowledge and understanding of selected periods and geographies of the ancient and modern world, and of themes within these periods and areas;
·	enhance your ability to reflect on the nature of the past: how it has developed over time and in a range of different contexts, and its place in modern culture;
·	develop your capacity to undertake independent research into aspects of the study of the history of the world, using appropriate sources and methodologies;
·	enable you to develop your skills in written and oral communication, the use of primary source material, teamwork, and problem-solving;
·	provide an opportunity for you, should you wish, to enrich your studies by undertaking modules from other disciplines through the Curriculum Innovation Programme;
·	help you develop the skills and training to enable you to undertake substantial pieces of independent research, particularly the dissertations produced in your final part;
·	provide training that would pave the way for any future specialist research;
·	provide opportunities for you to develop proficiency in reading Ancient Greek and Latin, and to apply these to your work on sources for Ancient History.

Programme Learning Outcomes

Knowledge and Understanding

On successful completion of this programme you will have knowledge and understanding of:

A1.	the different ways in which the human past can be approached and constructed by historians;

A2.	the different ways in which images and interpretations of the human past are produced and consumed within our own and other societies;

A3.	the relationship between historical sources, evidence, argument and interpretation;

A4.	patterns of diversity in selected areas of History;

A5.	a number of chronological periods and geographical areas of the past;

A6.	research design, evaluation and application.

Teaching and Learning Methods

· field trips or more practical sessions to investigate ancient spaces and landscapes, as well as to handle relevant artifacts;
· study and fieldtrips to sites in Britain and/or the Mediterranean world
· lectures, and lecture elements, will be used in the first and second part where required to provide you with a broad orientation to periods, debates and themes;
· tutor-led seminars will be used through the programme to facilitate in-depth discussion of key developments, themes and debates;
· student-led seminars will feature progressively in the programme, and particularly in your final part special subject, as students develop greater knowledge and authority and the mutual confidence that allows you to learn from one another;
· group activities will allow you to develop and share knowledge and understanding with your peers outside a seminar room setting;
· study visits take place on many modules throughout the programme, in order to deepen your understanding of the past and its representation through engagements with landscapes, buildings, exhibits and other material forms of evidence;
· office hours and individual tutorials offer you the opportunity to develop your historical knowledge and understanding through one-to-one discussions with module tutors;
· independent study is embedded in all stages of the programme, culminating in the final-part dissertation, encouraging you to develop your own specialized expertise in particular events, debates and themes.

Assessment Methods

· short commentaries of up to 1,000 words are used in first-part modules to assess and provide early feedback on your comprehension of primary sources and/or key conceptual terms;
· individual essays are used throughout the programme to assess your knowledge and understanding of key events, approaches, themes and debates;
· a documentary commentary ('gobbet') section of the exam for the second-part 15 credit options assesses your ability to evaluate primary sources and helps prepare you for the longer gobbet exam in part 3;
· a documentary commentary ('gobbet') exam in the final-part 'special subject' assesses your comprehension of historical context, particularly the circumstances in which such documents were produced and read or consumed;
· the final-part dissertation assesses your attainment of an authoritative grasp of a research topic, including an understanding of the relevant historiographical and theoretical literature, historical context, key developments and chronology;
· unseen examinations are used throughout the programme to test your understanding of key historical questions and debates and your grasp of the evidence required to resolve them.

Subject Specific Intellectual and Research Skills

On successful completion of this programme you will be able to:

B1.   articulate and reflect on a body of knowledge about the history of the world from the ancient period onwards;

B2.   interrogate and contextualise a variety of forms of evidence about the history of the world;

B3.   grasp and apply terminology and method used in the study of the world;

B4.   evaluate scholarly controversies and formulate your own independent views with respect to them;

B5.   structure a historical or archaeological argument with appropriate evidential support;

B6.   develop a major research project, drawing upon appropriate primary source materials and the relevant historiographical and theoretical literature.

Teaching and Learning Methods

· lectures will provide you with instructive examples of how to engage with a body of historical knowledge, structure a historical argument, interrogate and contextualise historical evidence, deploy key historical terms, and evaluate historical controversies;
· individual study – for class preparation, assessed work and exam revision – will foster an understanding of how historians think and write 'historically': how they engage with a historical controversy, identify a source base, deploy theory where relevant and structure an argument in sympathy with the evidence;
· tutor-led seminars will provide you with an environment in which to discuss and debate your ideas and those of others;
· office hours and individual tutorials offer an occasion to discuss questions of method, resource, structure and argument one-to-one with your tutors
· field trips or more practical sessions to investigate ancient spaces and landscapes, as well as to handle relevant artifacts;
· study and fieldtrips to sites in Britain and/or the Mediterranean world

Assessment Methods

 short commentaries are used in first part modules, and again in the second-part 15 credit option module exam and the final-part 'gobbets' exercise, to assess your ability to interrogate and contextualize historical evidence · essays are used throughout the curriculum to assess your ability to identify relevant source materials, engage with a body of historical knowledge, negotiate historical controversy, deploy historical terminology and structure an argument from evidence;
· the final-part dissertation tests your ability to develop and deliver a major project of individual historical research, informed by historiographical and, where relevant, theoretical debates, rooted in sound methodology and argued from the primary evidence;
· unseen examinations are used throughout the curriculum to assess your ability to articulate and reflect upon a body of historical knowledge, critically discuss historiographical debates and structure a historical argument in sympathy with the evidence.

Transferable and Generic Skills

On successful completion of this programme you will be able to:

C1.   communicate ideas and arguments in a variety of written formats;

C2.   communicate ideas and arguments orally and in the context of formal presentations;

C3.   identify, select and draw upon a wide variety of useful and relevant materials in the development of a research project;

C4.   manage individual and group research projects to timely completion;

C5.   demonstrate interpersonal skills whilst working with others in the investigation of problems, and in the presentation of arguments and evidence;

C6.   demonstrate self-confidence and self-awareness both in collaborative activities and independent study;

C7.   identify and constructively reflect upon your own intellectual strengths and weaknesses.

Teaching and Learning Methods

at all stages of the curriculum, your skills in written communication will be enhanced through formal and informal feedback on written assessments, with specific lectures on essay writing built into the first-part 'World Histories', 'Introduction to the Ancient World' and 'Ancient History: Sources and Controversies' modules;
· your skills in oral communication will be developed through seminar discussions and non-assessed individual and group presentations throughout the curriculum, and in assessed group presentations;
· in tutorial meetings and office-hours, and through feedback, tutors will provide guidance about methods of research and project management;
· seminar discussions throughout the curriculum, will provide an opportunity for you to enhance your interpersonal skills;
· through reflective exercises and more generally through one-to-one meetings with tutors and academic advisors, you will be encouraged to reflect upon your intellectual strengths and weaknesses.

Assessment Methods

all forms of written assessment – commentaries, essays, exams and dissertations – will test your skills in written communication;
· your skills in oral communication will be assessed in group presentations;
· your ability to design and investigate a discrete research project, and manage it to completion, will be tested in 2,000 word first- and second-part essays, in 3,000 and 4,000 word final-part essays, and the final-part dissertation;

Progression Requirements

The programme will follow the University's regulations for Progression, Determination and Classification of Results: Undergraduate and Integrated Masters Programmes or the University's regulations for Progression, Determination and Classification of Results: Standalone Masters Programmes as set out in the General Academic Regulations in the University Calendar: http://www.calendar.soton.ac.uk/sectionIV/sectIV-index.html

Support for student learning

There are facilities and services to support your learning some of which are accessible to students across the University and some of which will be geared more particularly to students in your particular Faculty or discipline area.

The University provides:
- library resources, including e-books, on-line journals and databases, which are comprehensive and up-to-date; together with assistance from Library staff to enable you to make the best use of these resources
- high speed access to online electronic learning resources on the Internet from dedicated PC Workstations onsite and from your own devices; laptops, smartphones and tablet PCs via the Eduroam wireless network. There is a wide range of application software available from the Student Public Workstations.
- computer accounts which will connect you to a number of learning technologies for example, the Blackboard virtual learning environment (which facilitates online learning and access to specific learning resources)
- standard ICT tools such as Email, secure filestore and calendars.
- access to key information through the MySouthampton Student Mobile Portal which delivers timetables, Module information, Locations, Tutor details, Library account, bus timetables etc. while you are on the move.
- IT support through a comprehensive website, telephone and online ticketed support and a dedicated helpdesk in the Hartley Library.
- Enabling Services offering support services and resources via a triage model to access crisis management, mental health support and counselling. Support includes daily Drop In at Highfield campus at 13.00 – 15.00 (Monday, Wednesday and Friday out of term-time) or via on-line chat on weekdays from 14.00 – 16.00. Arrangements can also be made for meetings via Skype.
- assessment and support (including specialist IT support) facilities if you have a disability, long term health problem or Specific Learning Difficulty (e.g. dyslexia).
- the Student Services Centre (SSC) to assist you with a range of general enquiries including financial matters, accommodation, exams, graduation, student visas, ID cards
- Career and Employability services, advising on job search, applications, interviews, paid work, volunteering and internship opportunities and getting the most out of your extra-curricular activities alongside your degree programme when writing your CV
- Other support that includes health services (GPs), chaplaincy (for all faiths) and 'out of hours' support for students in Halls and in the local community, (18.00-08.00)
- A Centre for Language Study, providing assistance in the development of English language and study skills for non-native speakers.

The Students' Union provides
- an academic student representation system, consisting of Course Representatives, Academic Presidents, Faculty Officers and the Vice-President Education; SUSU provides training and support for all these representatives, whose role is to represent students' views to the University.
- opportunities for extracurricular activities and volunteering
- an Advice Centre offering free and confidential advice including support if you need to make an academic appeal
- Support for student peer-to-peer groups, such as Nightline.

Associated with your programme you will be able to access:

·   personal advisors, made up from amongst the staff in History, who are able to offer advice on work, careers and other important matters, or connect you with trained professionals who can do likewise;
·   open office hours, whereby all staff make themselves available for those seeking advice about their course, essays, and so on;
·   talks and training on topics such as essay writing, preparing for your dissertation, and so on.

Methods for evaluating the quality of teaching and learning

You will have the opportunity to have your say on the quality of the programme in the following ways:

You will have the opportunity to have your say on the quality of the programme in the following ways:

- Completing student evaluation questionnaires for each module of the programme;
- Acting as a student representative on various committees, e.g. Staff: Student Liaison Committees, Faculty Programmes Committee OR providing comments to your student representative to feed back on your behalf;
- Serving as a student representative on Faculty Scrutiny Groups for programme validation;
- Taking part in programme validation meetings by joining a panel of students to meet with the Faculty Scrutiny Group.

The ways in which the quality of your programme is checked, both inside and outside the University, are:

- Regular module and programme reports which are monitored by the Faculty;
- Programme validation, normally every five years;
- External examiners, who produce an annual report;
- A national Research Exercise Framework (our research activity contributes directly to the quality of your learning experience);

Career Opportunities

Studying History at Southampton will help you to acquire the critical thinking and communication skills that are vital as you embark on your career, opening up an extremely wide variety of career options. Such invaluable transferable skills include the ability to weigh up evidence and arguments, to express your opinions coherently and concisely, to work independently, and to manage your time and workload effectively. These skills will demonstrate to employers that you are uniquely equipped to respond positively to the challenges and opportunities of tomorrow's workplace. Our graduates have succeeded in careers as diverse as law; the media; IT; the Civil Service; advertising, film and television; business and finance; teaching; politics; numerous roles in the public sector and NGOs; publishing; teaching; museums, galleries and libraries – to name but a few.

External Examiner(s) for the programme

Name: Dr Uta Andrea Balbier - King's College London

Name: Dr Jenny Benham - University of Cardiff

Name: Dr James Corke-Webster - University of Durham

Name: Dr Michael P Cullinane - University of Roehampton

Name: Dr Sarah Richardson - University of Warwick

Name: Dr Caroline Dodds Pennock - University of Sheffield

Students must not contact External Examiner(s) directly, and external examiners have been advised to refer any such communications back to the University. Students should raise any general queries about the assessment and examination process for the programme with their Course Representative, for consideration through Staff: Student Liaison Committee in the first instance, and Student representatives on Staff: Student Liaison Committees will have the opportunity to consider external examiners' reports as part of the University's quality assurance process.

External examiners do not have a direct role in determining results for individual students, and students wishing to discuss their own performance in assessment should contact their Personal Academic Tutor in the first instance.

Please note: This specification provides a concise summary of the main features of the programme and the learning outcomes that a typical student might reasonably be expected to achieve and demonstrate if s/he takes full advantage of the learning opportunities that are provided. More detailed information can be found in the programme handbook.

Appendix 1:

Students are responsible for meeting the cost of essential textbooks, and of producing such essays, assignments, laboratory reports and dissertations as are required to fulfil the academic requirements for each programme of study. In addition to this, students registered for this programme also have to pay for:

Additional Costs

Type	Details
Software Licenses	All software is provided
Hardware	It is advisable that students provide their own laptop or personal computer, although shared facilities are available across the University campus.
Computer discs or USB drives	Students are expected to provide their own portable data storage device.
Stationery	You will be expected to provide your own day-to-day stationary items, e.g. pens, pencils, notebooks, etc.). Any specialist stationery items will be specified under the Additional Costs tab of the relevant module profile.
Textbooks	Where a module specifies core texts these should generally be available on the reserve list in the library. However due to demand, students may prefer to buy their own copies. These can be purchased from any source. Some modules suggest reading texts as optional background reading. The library may hold copies of such texts, or alternatively you may wish to purchase your own copies. Although not essential reading, you may benefit from the additional reading materials for the module.
Laboratory Equipment and Materials	All laboratory equipment and materials are provided.
Placements (including Study Abroad Programmes)	Students on placement programmes can expect to cover costs for health and travel insurance, accommodation and living expenses; travel costs; visa costs. This will vary depending on which country you are travelling to. Specific details on what additional costs there will be are detailed in the individual module profiles which can be found under the modules tab of the programmes details of your programme.
Printing and Photocopying Costs	Where possible, coursework such as essays; projects; dissertations is likely to be submitted on line. However, there are some items where it is not possible to submit on line and students will be asked to provide a printed copy. The University printing costs are currently: A4 - 5p per side (black and white) or 25p per side (colour) A3 - 10p per side (black and white) or 50p per side (colour) Please Note: Paper sizes not recognised by the printing devices will prompt you to select the size and then charge a minimum of 50p per black and white copy and a maximum of £1 per colour copy. You can pay for your printing by using the money loaders or by using print copy payment service by going to http://www.southampton.ac.uk/isolutions/students/printing-for-students.page The University Print Centre also offers a printing and copying service as well as a dissertation/binding service. Current printing and copying costs can be found in http://www.southampton.ac.uk/printcentre/copyrooms/service.page. They also provide a large format printing service, e.g. Academic posters. Details of current costs can be found in http://www.southampton.ac.uk/printcentre/exhibition/academicposters.page?.

In some cases you'll be able to choose modules (which may have different costs associated with that module) which will change the overall cost of a programme to you. Details of such costs will be listed in the Module Profile. Please also ensure you read the section on additional costs in the University's Fees, Charges and Expenses Regulations in the University Calendar available at www.calendar.soton.ac.uk.
