Programme Overview

Brief outline of the programme

Southampton's History department contains world experts in an enormous range of fields. From the Classical World to the present day, and from Britain and the rest of Europe to the Americas, Australasia, Asia and Africa, studying History at Southampton affords its undergraduates the chance to study topics about which they are already passionate, or to try something entirely new. Modern Languages at Southampton is consistently ranked amongst the very highest in the United Kingdom, and enables you to learn about and experience other cultures in an exciting variety of ways. Whilst a degree combination that includes a language already enhances your employment prospects our programme builds a broader range of study and communication skills that are vital for succeeding in the world of work. You will learn to absorb, analyse and assess a wide variety of viewpoints, and express arguments in oral and written form, and to think and work independently and in cooperation with others. You will learn how to do primary research yourself, applying a range of concepts and methods. All in all, then, studying History and Modern Languages at Southampton offers undergraduates the opportunity to learn in an engaging, supportive and highly successful research environment.

Your contact hours will vary depending on your module/option choices. Full information about contact hours is provided in individual module profiles.

Learning and teaching

Students at Southampton learn in a variety of ways. Lectures introduce students to the outline of a topic and the debates within it. Small-group seminars offer students the chance to interact with academics and other students in collaborative discussions. Such discussions can help inform and shape the ways in which students then go about writing their essays. Feedback on performance is given through informal one-to-one discussions, such as those on offer during lecturers' office hours, and through oral and written feedback after submission of a piece of work.

Assessment

History and Modern Languages use a range of assessment methods to ensure that students are able to demonstrate they have achieved intended learning outcomes. The most common means of assessment is an essay. Essays offer students the opportunity to demonstrate their use of skills in research and analysis to make their own arguments. Longer pieces of writing, allowing for a greater development of argument, become more common as an undergraduate progresses through his or her studies, and these allow students to formulate their own lines of enquiry, using primary material to create significant contributions to historical and cultural knowledge. Some exams are also taken, in order to assess students' ability to formulate clear, focused and engaging pieces of writing in test conditions. Oral presentations and examinations feature in some modules, particularly those in Modern Languages.

Special Features of the programme

Studying a language is an opportunity to open your mind to different peoples and cultures. The year abroad represents a key opportunity in this respect. As a Modern Languages student you will spend the third Part of the programme abroad in either a work placement, a British Council placement or at one of Southampton's partner universities. Whilst a degree combination that includes a language already enhances your employment prospects, our programme builds a broader range of study and communication skills that are vital for succeeding in the world of work. You will learn to absorb, analyse and assess a wide variety of viewpoints, express arguments in oral and written form, and to think and work independently and in cooperation with others. You will learn how to do primary research yourself, applying a range of concepts and methods.

Please note: As a research-led University, we undertake a continuous review of our programmes to ensure quality enhancement and to manage our resources. As a result, this programme may be revised during a student's period of registration; however, any revision will be balanced against the requirement that the student should receive the educational service expected. Please read our Disclaimer to see why, when and how changes may be made to a student's programme.

Programmes and major changes to programmes are approved through the University's programme validation process which is described in the University's Quality handbook.

Educational Aims of the Programme

The aims of the programme are to:

- provide you with an understanding of the central theoretical and methodological issues involved in the study of History;
- develop your knowledge and understanding of selected periods of History, and of themes within these periods;
- enhance your ability to reflect on the nature of History: how it has developed over time, and its place in modern culture;
- develop your capacity to undertake independent research into aspects of History, using appropriate sources and methodologies;

- enable you to develop your skills in written and oral communication, the use of primary source material, teamwork, and problem-solving;
- develop your ability to speak, read and write in the target language to a high level;
- enable you to develop analytical, research and personal skills relevant to a range of careers and professions, including those for which fluency in a foreign language is a key requirement;
- develop your awareness of cultural, social and political developments within the country of your chosen language.

Programme Learning Outcomes

Knowledge and Understanding

On successful completion of this programme you will have knowledge and understanding of:

- A1. the different ways in which the human past can be approached and constructed by historians;
- A2. the different ways in which images and interpretations of the human past are produced and consumed within our own and other societies;
- A3. the relationship between historical sources, evidence, argument and interpretation;
- A4. patterns of diversity in selected areas of History;
- A5. a number of chronological periods and geographical areas of the past;
- A6. research design, evaluation and application;
- A7. aspects of the cultures, linguistic contexts, history, politics, geography, social and economic structures of the countries studied;
- A8. the structures, registers and varieties of language, and of the methods required to analyse them;
- A9. significant, and sometime competing, methodologies, theories and issues relating to social and political studies, linguistic studies, and/or literary and cultural Studies within the context of the curriculum;
- A10. the interaction of language, text, image and socio-cultural context;
- A11. the culture and society of a particular country where you have spent your year abroad.

Teaching and Learning Methods

In History:

- lectures, and lecture elements, will be used in the first and second year where required to provide you with a broad orientation to periods, debates and themes;
- tutor-led seminars will be used through the programme to facilitate in-depth discussion of key developments, themes and debates;
- student-led seminars will feature progressively in the programme, and particularly in your third year special subject, as students develop greater knowledge and authority and the mutual confidence that allows you to learn from one another;
- group activities - most notably the second-year group project - will allow you to develop and share knowledge and understanding with your peers outside a seminar room setting;
- study visits take place on many modules throughout the programme, in order to deepen your understanding of the past and its representation through engagements with landscapes, buildings, exhibits and other material forms of evidence;
- office hours and individual tutorials offer you the opportunity to develop your historical knowledge and understanding through one-to-one discussions with module tutors;
- independent study is embedded in all stages of the programme, culminating in the third-year dissertation, encouraging you to develop your own specialized expertise in particular events, debates and themes.

For language study, seven Stages of development are identified with clearly defined and progressive learning outcomes in terms of:

- linguistic competence;
- knowledge and understanding of language form, use and cultural context;
- language learning strategies.

You are allocated to the appropriate language Stage and supported in your progression through the Stages. Learning tasks aim to achieve communicative competence in its widest sense, including the traditional skills of speaking, listening, reading and writing and also intercultural and sociolinguistic competence. Class teaching emphasises participation in discussion and in tasks like small group and pair work, role play, and individual or group presentations. Teaching is in the foreign language wherever possible.

For 'content' courses delivered within Modern Languages, learning activities include lectures and other tutor-led teaching, as well as the more student-led context of seminars, presentations, guided independent study and the preparation of written assignments. Some courses use on-line material and discussion lists, where knowledge and commentary is exchanged between staff and students. You receive regular written, in-class and tutorial feedback, depending on the assignment type. You also study in a partner university or undertake a relevant work placement during the year abroad, when you complete an investigative project or analytical report on the placement, requiring sustained and independent study. You are also required to record your experiences of the culture and language learning during the year abroad, and to submit an extract of this at the end of the year.

Assessment Methods

In History:

- short commentaries of up to 1,000 words are used in first-part modules to assess and provide early feedback on your comprehension of primary sources and/or key conceptual terms;
- individual essays are used throughout the programme to assess your knowledge and understanding of key events, approaches, themes and debates;
- a documentary commentary ('gobbet') section of the exam for the second-part 15 credit options assesses your ability to evaluate primary sources and helps prepare you for the longer gobbet exam in part 3;
- a documentary commentary ('gobbet') exam in the third-part 'special subject' assesses your comprehension of historical context, particularly the circumstances in which such documents were produced and read or consumed;
- the third-part dissertation assesses your attainment of an authoritative grasp of a research topic, including an understanding of the relevant historiographical and theoretical literature, historical context, key developments and chronology;
- unseen examinations are used throughout the programme to test your understanding of key historical questions and debates and your grasp of the evidence required to resolve them.

In Modern Languages, the range of assessment methods includes:

- examinations, whether written or oral, to test overall learning in conditions where time and support for linguistic performance are limited, as often in real life;
- coursework assessment provides formative and summative testing, which in the case of language units is measured against the intended learning outcomes of each Stage;
- fieldwork and the collection of empirical data are normally required to complete the investigative project, during the year abroad.

Content modules use a broad range of assessments from individual essays to individual or group presentations that can involve developing awareness or marketing campaigns;

Assessment tasks increase in complexity in line with progression, and are directly related to the learning outcomes of units. They usually integrate thinking skills with knowledge outcomes. For example, a class presentation and discussion on a specialist topic tests the ability to think through and organise material in preparation, and to think on your feet in discussion, as well as testing topic knowledge, interactive skills, strategic competence, and in some cases linguistic accuracy and fluency.

Subject Specific Intellectual and Research Skills

On successful completion of this programme you will be able to:

- B1. articulate and reflect on a body of historical knowledge;
- B2. interrogate and contextualise historical evidence;
- B3. grasp and apply historical terminology and method;
- B4. evaluate historical controversies and formulate your own independent views with respect to them;
- B5. structure a historical argument with appropriate evidential support;
- B6. develop a major historical research project, drawing upon appropriate primary source materials and the relevant historiographical and theoretical literature;
- B7. define, present and exemplify concepts;
- B8. select, synthesise and focus information from a range of sources in both English and your chosen foreign language;
- B9. grasp and evaluate conflicting positions and formulate independent views;
- B10. structure argument and provide empirical evidence to support it;
- B11. identify and analyse problems;
- B12. present and debate ideas, both orally and in writing, in an open-minded but rigorous way.

Teaching and Learning Methods

History:

- lectures will provide you with instructive examples of how to engage with a body of historical knowledge, structure a historical argument, interrogate and contextualise historical evidence, deploy key historical terms, and evaluate historical controversies;
- individual study – for class preparation, assessed work and exam revision – will foster an understanding of how historians think and write ‘historically’: how they engage with a historical controversy, identify a source base, deploy theory where relevant and structure an argument in sympathy with the evidence;
- tutor-led seminars will provide you with an environment in which to discuss and debate your ideas and those of others;
- office hours and individual tutorials offer an occasion to discuss questions of method, resource, structure and argument one-to-one with your tutors.

Modern Languages:

- the ability to work in breadth and depth and to develop a range of cognitive skills is ensured by coherently structured pathways through a broad programme;
- lectures will develop the skills of summarising and processing information, mentally and through note-taking;
- cognitive skills are developed in student-led classes – seminars, presentations, discussions, group projects – from the outset of the programme. As you move into the later years, you will be required to take more responsibility for your classes and thus to develop and demonstrate the full range of cognitive skills in a public setting;
- you will develop cognitive skills through researching and writing essays throughout the programme;
- as you move into the third and fourth parts of the programme, you will experience more challenging learning tasks – involving personal research, in-depth study and analysis and the production of long complex texts – in the form of the year abroad Investigative Project in Part 3 and the option of a double-unit dissertation in the final part;
- depending on the assignment type, written, in-class and tutorial feedback is given to help you identify any gaps in your cognitive skills and to develop your skills effectively through content, style and presentation.

Assessment Methods

History:

- short commentaries are used in first part modules, and again in the second-part 15 credit option module exam and the third-part 'gobbets' exercise, to assess your ability to interrogate and contextualize historical evidence
- essays are used throughout the curriculum to assess your ability to identify relevant source materials, engage with a body of historical knowledge, negotiate historical controversy, deploy historical terminology and structure an argument from evidence;
- the third-part dissertation tests your ability to develop and deliver a major project of individual historical research, informed by historiographical and, where relevant, theoretical debates, rooted in sound methodology and argued from the primary evidence;
- unseen examinations are used throughout the curriculum to assess your ability to articulate and reflect upon a body of historical knowledge, critically discuss historiographical debates and structure a historical argument in sympathy with the evidence.

Modern Languages:

- examinations, whether written or oral, test your overall thinking skills in conditions where time and support for reflection are limited, as often in real life;
- coursework assessment provides formative and summative testing against the intended learning outcomes of the unit concerned;
- assessment tasks are directly related to learning outcomes of units and usually integrate thinking skills with language knowledge outcomes. For example, a class presentation and discussion on a specialist topic tests your ability to think through and organise your material in preparation, and to think on your feet in discussion, as well as testing your topic knowledge, interactive skills, strategic competence, and in some cases your linguistic accuracy and fluency.

Transferable and Generic Skills

On successful completion of this programme you will be able to:

- C1. communicate ideas and arguments in a variety of written formats;
- C2. communicate ideas and arguments orally and in the context of formal presentations;
- C3. identify, select and draw upon a wide variety of useful and relevant materials in the development of a research project;
- C4. manage individual research projects to timely completion;
- C5. demonstrate interpersonal skills whilst working with others in the investigation of problems, and in the presentation of arguments and evidence;
- C6. demonstrate self-confidence and self-awareness both in collaborative activities and independent study;
- C7. identify and constructively reflect upon your own intellectual strengths and weaknesses.
- C8. communicate effectively and confidently in one foreign language, both orally and in writing, including being able to engage an audience in discussion and sustaining a long and complex piece of writing;
- C9. demonstrate intercultural competence;
- C10. communicate ideas and arguments in a variety of written formats;
- C11. communicate ideas and arguments orally and through formal presentations;
- C12. solve problems, sometimes in quite complicated situations;
- C13. demonstrate effective learning and research skills, including planning and organising your learning through self-management;
- C14. exercise independence and initiative;
- C15. work effectively alone and in collaboration with others to solve problems and/or carry out a task;

- C16. set and monitor goals, reflecting on your own learning, and learning from feedback.
- C17. take notes and keep records;
- C18. use libraries, archives, learning resources and the internet to access relevant information;
- C19. use ICT resources effectively in your written work and in presentations;
- C20. write in appropriate genres and to required conventions, including referencing and identification;
- C21. work to deadlines and manage your time effectively.

Teaching and Learning Methods

History:

- at all stages of the curriculum, your skills in written communication will be enhanced through formal and informal feedback on written assessments, with specific lectures on essay writing built into the first-part 'World Histories' module;
- your skills in oral communication will be developed through seminar discussions and non-assessed individual and group presentations throughout the curriculum;
- in tutorial meetings and office-hours, and through feedback, tutors will provide guidance about methods of research and project management;
- seminar discussions throughout the curriculum will provide an opportunity for you to enhance your interpersonal skills;
- through reflective exercises in the group project and more generally through one-to-one meetings with tutors and personal academic tutor, you will be encouraged to reflect upon your intellectual strengths and weaknesses.

Modern Languages:

- each language Stage identifies specific linguistic and learning skills to be achieved, and these are cumulative in the sense that, for example, in Stage 5 you will be expected to demonstrate skills required at Stage 4;
- given the highly communicative and resource-based nature of language learning, you are guided to develop all of the key skills above in all of the Stages;
- the part 1 induction programme introduces you to learning strategies and methods, and also ensures that you sign up for training sessions in the use of ICT and for an introduction to the University Library. Study skills and writing workshops are available throughout the year on request;
- broadly speaking, the emphasis in Part 1 is on developing basic bibliographical and referencing skills, producing written work according to academic conventions, making individual and group presentations and developing an independent approach to learning. We also encourage you to develop good computer skills;
- in Part 2 the stress is on consolidating the groundwork laid down in Part 1 and on developing the kind of research skills and independent learning strategies which will prepare you to make the most of the social and cultural experiences of your Year Abroad and for producing the Investigative Project. This includes working with others on group tasks;
- you will spend Part 3 abroad, when the emphasis is on enhancing independence and initiative in studying a foreign language and culture, developing empirical research skills and producing a long project. The Modern Languages Year Abroad website offers students who are abroad the opportunity to communicate with both staff at home and other students abroad;
- in the final part we stress advanced research skills, including the evaluation of the roles of primary and secondary sources, and developing the ability to develop a sustained argument in writing and to give academic oral presentations;
- written, in-class and tutorial feedback is given to help you to identify the strengths and weaknesses of your key skills, and you will have the opportunity to monitor and evaluate your own progress in key skills with your personal tutor.

Assessment Methods

History:

- all forms of written assessment – commentaries, essays, exams and dissertations – will test your skills in written communication;
- your skills in oral communication will be assessed in group presentations;
- your ability to design and investigate a discrete research project, and manage it to completion, will be tested in 2,000 word first- and second-part essays, in the group project, in 3,000 and 4,000 word third-part essays, and the (optional) third-part dissertation.

Modern Languages:

- key skills are tested as an integral part of the formal assessment of linguistic proficiency and of knowledge and understanding in your chosen modules in French;
- the effectiveness of your communication, learning and research skills is tested through both assessed coursework and examinations, which variously involve writing of different kinds, group and individual projects, and oral presentations and other interactive tasks;
- your use of ICT implicitly contributes to your assessment since it is a necessary condition for presenting much of your work and for communicating with your tutors about your Investigative Project while you are abroad;
- the specialist skills of language learning are explicitly assessed through a wide range of tasks and activities.

Part III

Students will spend the Year Abroad in a country where the chosen language is spoken, either as:

- an English language assistant
- studying on a University course
- on an approved work placement

During the Year Abroad students are required to complete an Investigative Project (LANG3005). This is an independent study project (6,000 words) supervised by a member of staff and written in the target language.

Progression Requirements

The programme will follow the University's regulations for Progression, Determination and Classification of Results: Undergraduate and Integrated Masters Programmes or the University's regulations for Progression, Determination and Classification of Results: Standalone Masters Programmes as set out in the General Academic Regulations in the University Calendar: <http://www.calendar.soton.ac.uk/sectionIV/sectIV-index.html>

Support for student learning

There are facilities and services to support your learning some of which are accessible to students across the University and some of which will be geared more particularly to students in your particular Faculty or discipline area.

The University provides:

- library resources, including e-books, on-line journals and databases, which are comprehensive and up-to-date; together with assistance from Library staff to enable you to make the best use of these resources

- high speed access to online electronic learning resources on the Internet from dedicated PC Workstations onsite and from your own devices; laptops, smartphones and tablet PCs via the Eduroam wireless network. There is a wide range of application software available from the Student Public Workstations.
- computer accounts which will connect you to a number of learning technologies for example, the Blackboard virtual learning environment (which facilitates online learning and access to specific learning resources)
- standard ICT tools such as Email, secure filestore and calendars.
- access to key information through the MySouthampton Student Mobile Portal which delivers timetables, Module information, Locations, Tutor details, Library account, bus timetables etc. while you are on the move.
- IT support through a comprehensive website, telephone and online ticketed support and a dedicated helpdesk in the Hartley Library.
- Enabling Services offering support services and resources via a triage model to access crisis management, mental health support and counselling. Support includes daily Drop In at Highfield campus at 13.00 – 15.00 (Monday, Wednesday and Friday out of term-time) or via on-line chat on weekdays from 14.00 – 16.00. Arrangements can also be made for meetings via Skype.
- assessment and support (including specialist IT support) facilities if you have a disability, long term health problem or Specific Learning Difficulty (e.g. dyslexia).
- the Student Services Centre (SSC) to assist you with a range of general enquiries including financial matters, accommodation, exams, graduation, student visas, ID cards
- Career and Employability services, advising on job search, applications, interviews, paid work, volunteering and internship opportunities and getting the most out of your extra-curricular activities alongside your degree programme when writing your CV
- Other support that includes health services (GPs), chaplaincy (for all faiths) and 'out of hours' support for students in Halls and in the local community, (18.00-08.00)
- A Centre for Language Study, providing assistance in the development of English language and study skills for non-native speakers.

The Students' Union provides

- an academic student representation system, consisting of Course Representatives, Academic Presidents, Faculty Officers and the Vice-President Education; SUSU provides training and support for all these representatives, whose role is to represent students' views to the University.
- opportunities for extracurricular activities and volunteering
- an Advice Centre offering free and confidential advice including support if you need to make an academic appeal
- Support for student peer-to-peer groups, such as Nightline.

Associated with your programme you will be able to access:

- personal academic tutors, made up from amongst the staff in History, who are able to offer advice on work, careers and other important matters, or connect you with trained professionals who can do likewise;
- open office hours, whereby all staff make themselves available for those seeking advice about their course, essays, and so on;
- talks and training on topics such as essay writing, preparing for your dissertation, and so on.

Methods for evaluating the quality of teaching and learning

You will have the opportunity to have your say on the quality of the programme in the following ways:

- Completing student evaluation questionnaires for each module of the programme;
- Acting as a student representative on various committees, e.g. Staff: Student Liaison Committees, Faculty Programmes Committee OR providing comments to your student representative to feed back on your behalf;
- Serving as a student representative on Faculty Scrutiny Groups for programme validation;
- Taking part in programme validation meetings by joining a panel of students to meet with the Faculty Scrutiny Group;
- National Student Survey.

The ways in which the quality of your programme is checked, both inside and outside the University, are:

- Regular module and programme reports which are monitored by the Faculty;
- Programme validation, normally every five years;

- External examiners, who produce an annual report;
- A national Research Exercise Framework (our research activity contributes directly to the quality of your learning experience);
- Institutional Review by the Quality Assurance Agency.

Further details on the University's quality assurance processes are given in the Quality Handbook.

Career Opportunities

Studying a joint honours incorporating Modern Languages and History at Southampton will help you to acquire the critical thinking and communication skills that are vital as you embark on your career, opening up an extremely wide variety of career options. Such invaluable transferable skills include the ability to weigh up evidence and arguments, to express your opinions coherently and concisely, to work independently, and to manage your time and workload effectively. These skills will demonstrate to employers that you are uniquely equipped to respond positively to the challenges and opportunities of tomorrow's workplace. Besides working in international development, translation and other language-related posts in the UK, Europe and beyond, our graduates have succeeded in careers as diverse as law; the media; IT; the Civil Service; advertising, film and television; business and finance; teaching; politics; numerous roles in the public sector and NGOs; publishing; teaching; museums, galleries and libraries – to name but a few.

External Examiner(s) for the programme

Name: Dr Uta Andrea Balbier - King's College London

Name: Dr Jenny Benham - University of Cardiff

Name: Dr James Corke-Webster - University of Durham

Name: Professor Janice Windebank - University of Sheffield

Name: Dr Michael P Cullinane - University of Roehampton

Name: Dr Sarah Richardson - University of Warwick

Name: Dr Caroline Dodds Pennock - University of Sheffield

Name: Dr Damien Gaucher - University of Exeter

Students must not contact External Examiner(s) directly, and external examiners have been advised to refer any such communications back to the University. Students should raise any general queries about the assessment and examination process for the programme with their Course Representative, for consideration through Staff: Student Liaison Committee in the first instance, and Student representatives on Staff: Student Liaison Committees will have the opportunity to consider external examiners' reports as part of the University's quality assurance process.

External examiners do not have a direct role in determining results for individual students, and students wishing to discuss their own performance in assessment should contact their Personal Academic Tutor in the first instance.

Please note: This specification provides a concise summary of the main features of the programme and the learning outcomes that a typical student might reasonably be expected to achieve and demonstrate if s/he takes full advantage of the learning opportunities that are provided. More detailed information can be found in the programme handbook.

Appendix 1:

Students are responsible for meeting the cost of essential textbooks, and of producing such essays, assignments, laboratory reports and dissertations as are required to fulfil the academic requirements for each programme of study. In addition to this, students registered for this programme also have to pay for:

Additional Costs

Type	Details
Software Licenses	All software is provided
Hardware	It is advisable that students provide their own laptop or personal computer, although shared facilities are available across the University campus.
Computer discs or USB drives	Students are expected to provide their own portable data storage device.
Stationery	You will be expected to provide your own day-to-day stationary items, e.g. pens, pencils, notebooks, etc.). Any specialist stationery items will be specified under the Additional Costs tab of the relevant module profile.
Textbooks	Where a module specifies core texts these should generally be available on the reserve list in the library. However due to demand, students may prefer to buy their own copies. These can be purchased from any source. Some modules suggest reading texts as optional background reading. The library may hold copies of such texts, or alternatively you may wish to purchase your own copies. Although not essential reading, you may benefit from the additional reading materials for the module.
Laboratory Equipment and Materials	All laboratory equipment and materials are provided.
Placements (including Study Abroad Programmes)	Students on placement programmes can expect to cover costs for health and travel insurance, accommodation and living expenses; travel costs; visa costs. This will vary depending on which country you are travelling to. Specific details on what additional costs there will be are detailed in the individual module profiles which can be found under the modules tab of the programmes details of your programme.
Printing and Photocopying Costs	Where possible, coursework such as essays; projects; dissertations is likely to be submitted on line. However, there are some items where it is not possible to submit on line and students will be asked to provide a printed copy. The University printing costs are currently: A4 - 5p per side (black and white) or 25p per side (colour) A3 - 10p per side (black and white) or 50p per side (colour) Please Note: Paper sizes not recognised by the printing devices will prompt you to select the size and then charge a minimum of 50p per black and white copy and a maximum of £1 per colour copy. You can pay for your printing by using the money loaders or by using print copy payment service by going to http://www.southampton.ac.uk/isolutions/students/printing-for-students.page The University Print Centre also offers a printing and copying service as well as a dissertation/binding service. Current printing and copying costs can be found http://www.southampton.ac.uk/printcentre/copyrooms/service.page. They also provide a large format printing service, e.g. Academic posters. Details of current costs can be found http://www.southampton.ac.uk/printcentre/exhibition/academicposters.page ?.

In some cases you'll be able to choose modules (which may have different costs associated with that module) which will change the overall cost of a programme to you. Details of such costs will be listed in the Module Profile. Please also ensure you read the section on additional costs in the University's Fees, Charges and Expenses Regulations in the University Calendar available at www.calendar.soton.ac.uk.
