Letter from N.S.Joseph, honorary secretary of the Russo-Jewish Committee, to Leonard L.Cohen, President of the Board of Guardians for the Relief of the Jewish Poor, 14 June 1905, further discuss the issue of military refugees arriving in London with the expectation of being forwarded to joining with their family members who have already emigrated. Joseph states that emigration is not exclusively at the cost of the Russian fund but is effected by the Jewish Shelter and is only partially at the cost of the fund. He also stresses that the responsibility for the families of persons who have already emigrated is not that of the Russo-Jewish Committee and notes that of the options for emigrating married men the only viable one was to emigrate them in the hope they would earn enough to enable them to pay for their families to join them. He then returns to the suggestion that the first six cases seeking assistance to joining with their family members already emigrated should be denied relief and returned to their country of origin so as to avoid further such applications.

Report by Hannah Hyam, Michael A.Green, and H.R.Levinsohn, members of the Sub-Committee on Sick Nursing, on the further provision of nurses for the sick poor in the East End, 19 April 1906. The report recommends negotiating with the East London Nursing Society with the view to adding a Jewish nurse, who can speak Yiddish and German, to the Society's staff to be employed in nursing Jewish cases. The nurse is to be appointment by both the Board and the Nursing Society and is to be known as the Jewish Board of Guardians' Staff Nurse.
