

News release

From Human Resources

14 May 2013

Bring back "form store" - you said, we did!

In rapid response to the feedback received by users of the new HR website, we have provided you with an updated version of the former "form store".

From the "Support" section of our Services A-Z, you can now access a central library of all the templates and forms that currently exist on the website, brought together in one place for your convenience.

Thank you to those web-users who supported us in making this change. Please continue to submit your thoughts and feedback to us via the website's comments and suggestion page to help us improve our service to you.