Programme overview

Brief outline of the programme

Southampton Law School has a long-standing tradition and a global reputation for its LLM Maritime Law. This exceptional programme gives you the practical know-how and theoretical knowledge of the key areas of maritime law, upon which you can successfully build a legal career in the maritime sector. Given the essential role of shipping to global trade, maritime law practice remains a strong legal sector that offers a good range of possible careers. Southampton - as a quintessential port city and being home to numerous shipping industry organisations - offers the ideal background for your studies.

Having intensively studied the law on the carriage of goods by sea, marine insurance, admiralty law, arbitration law, the international law of the sea or other related subjects, you will be able to tackle complex legal issues arising from practical scenarios. The programme also develops your practical transferable skills, including the ability to conduct independent research, both online and offline, time management, verbal and written communication, presenting and planning.

The LLM Maritime Law programme aims to develop your legal skills within a structure that allows you to shape your degree towards those areas in which you have a particular interests, while maintaining an overall coherence in relation to your individual choice of modules.

Your contact hours will be eight hours per week and will consist of seminars, or lectures and seminars, depending on the module. As a postgraduate, you will be expected to devote many hours to independent study as preparation for those contact hours and in working on your assignments and dissertation.

The LLM Maritime Law draws on the research strengths of the School's academic staff who are active at the cutting edge of international and national legal reform and development. The expertise of the staff has been recognised as being of international excellence, and in the School of Law we are strongly committed to providing the very best learning experience for all our students in a friendly, stimulating and research-led environment.

Special features of the programme

The Southampton Law School is home to the renowned Institute of Maritime Law. Members of the Institute are at the forefront of maritime law and bring their expertise to bear in the delivery of the LLM Maritime Law. The Institute runs a Practitioner Seminar programme in which eminent speakers from the shipping and maritime industry come and deliver lectures and seminars on a wide range of topics. This provides an exceptional opportunity for you to speak to, learn from and network with practitioners in the field.

The postgraduate cohort of Southampton Law School has always been very international, with students studying with us from many corners of the world: We take account of the fact that many of our LLM students do not come from a common law legal systems and other students have a lot of relevant industry or practical experience but do not have a law degree. Therefore we allocate the first week in each new academic year to run an intensive legal skills programme, called Introduction to Legal Skills, that introduces you to the common law system, the interactions of statute and judge-made law as well as the impact of international conventions and model laws on national law. During this week, you will also be introduced to the law library and the extensive electronic legal databases and other resources we hold. The programme will provide you with the foundations for taking the specialised modules.

You will be warmly invited to the Law Careers Fair to which some important shipping companies as well as many Law firms are invited. For further information as well as details on where to look for vacancies and opportunities you should visit the Career Destinations website

Southampton Law School also organises an annual debating competition, the LLM Challenge, where eight teams of postgraduates compete against each other on a diverse range of current legal topics. This competition is popular and each year we award a prize and certificates for the best team.

Learning and teaching

The programme is taught through a combination of lectures and/or seminars and through guided independent study in order to develop your skills of analysis of relevant legal materials, the identification of the key legal and policy issues, and the appraisal of solutions available. In the seminars and lectures you will develop clarity and objectivity in the application of legal principles, and the critical appraisal of law. These skills will be further developed through the production of written work (assessed and non-assessed), written feedback and later through collaboration with dissertation supervisors during the dissertation drafting.

Assessment

Formal examinations and assignments will assess your abilities in relation to the learning outcomes of the LLM Programme, as far as written discussion is concerned. Furthermore, the dissertation will give you the opportunity to bring together all of the skills developed and acquired throughout the programme.

Educational aims of the programme

The LLM Maritime Law programme aims to develop your legal skills within a structure that will allow you to shape your degree towards those areas in which your interests match our particular expertise, while maintaining an overall coherence in relation to your individual choice of modules.

The aims of the programme are to:

- give you a thorough and systematic knowledge and understanding of the main principles in maritime and related commercial law and their underlying social and economic policies and values;
- give you a critical understanding of the process by which maritime and related commercial law is produced;
- give you an understanding of how national and international law interact generally and in the maritime law context in particular;
- provide you with experience in dealing with legal principles deriving from a variety of legal instruments, including, where appropriate, international conventions, statutes, case law and standard form contracts;
- enable you to develop skills of legal analysis and problem solving, both systematically and at an advanced level;
- give you a (consolidated) understanding of the workings of the common law system generally and in the maritime law context in particular ;
- give you a critical understanding of legal and policy matters of contemporary controversy.

The programme is aligned with The Revised UK Quality Code for Higher Education (March 2018).

Programme learning outcomes

The learning outcomes that you will have achieved are as follows.

A. Knowledge and understanding

Having successfully completed this programme you will be able to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of:

- A1. the national, regional or international institutional legal frameworks governing maritime and related commercial transactions and relationships;
- A2. a substantial range of legal principles and processes governing liabilities and remedies in the maritime and related commercial relationships;
- A3. the commercial, safety or public policies values underlying these principles and processes and areas of current controversy within maritime and related commercial law;
- A4. a specific legal area of maritime or related commercial law.

Teaching and learning methods

The knowledge and understanding is acquired through the seminars and lectures and the independent study in preparation for seminars (A1-3). Understanding and knowledge of specific legal area within maritime or related commercial law is acquired through the research required for the Dissertation (A4)

Assessment methods

Knowledge and understanding is assessed through a combination of:

- The written examinations and course work in the case of the taught modules which will assess A1-3 ;
- The Dissertation concentrates on assessing A4 but will also reflect elements of A1-3.

B. Subject specific intellectual and research skills

Having successfully completed this programme you will be able to:

- B1. source, interpret and analyse relevant legal materials, including, where appropriate, international conventions, statutes, case law and standard form contracts;
- B2. identify key legal principles and apply to complex commercial problems in the maritime context
- B3. identify and critically evaluate key legal and policy issues in their social and economic contexts and possible policy responses
- B4. communicate legal arguments and opinions within the context of maritime and related commercial law clearly, accurately and objectively;
- B5. produce an extensive written discussion that coherently communicates an argument on a specific subject-matter on maritime or related commercial law

Teaching and learning methods

Seminars and lecture and guided independent study will develop your skills of analysis of relevant legal materials, the identification of the key legal and legal and policy issues and the appraisal of solutions available (B1,B2,B3). In the seminars you will also initially develop the skill of communicating legal arguments with clarity and objectivity (B4). These skills will be further developed through your production of written work (assessed and non-assessed), written feedback and later through collaboration with your dissertation supervisor (B1 -B4).

Assessment methods

Formal examinations and assignments will assess your abilities in relation to B1-B4, with varying emphasis on the practical application of the law (B2) or critical evaluation of legal and policy issues (B3). The Dissertation particularly assesses B5 but will also reflect skills in B1-B4.

C. Transferable and generic skills

Having successfully completed this programme you will be able to:

- C1. undertake independent research and access primary and secondary sources effectively;
- C2. analyse complex written texts and evaluate different types of arguments;
- C3. construct arguments and solve problems, including under time pressure, based on premises drawn from various sources;
- C4. communicate arguments in writing and reference sources appropriately.

Teaching and learning methods

Independent, supervised research during dissertations and assignments and preparatory research for seminars will be the major teaching methods for C1-C4. Seminar group work will assist in developing your ability to discuss and present the issues under study.

Assessment methods

All of the above skills are all assessed through the summative assessments, whether in the form of examinations, course work or the final dissertation. The dissertation also show-casts your ability to undertake independent supervised research, analyse complex texts, construct arguments and communicate these effectively.

Programme structure

Typical course content

The Southampton LLM Maritime Law experience offers a focused programme through which you can tailor your studies to your own interests and career development. You will be given a range of maritime law modules from which you must choose at least 3. You may choose:

- Carriage of Goods by Sea
- International Sale of Goods and Finance
- Admiralty Law
- Marine Insurance

However, we offer numerous other highly relevant modules from which you can choose, including Commercial Arbitration, Commercial Conflict of Laws or Business Finance.

Programme details

The programme consists of a taught part and a Dissertation.

For the taught part you have to complete 60 ECTS (120 CATS) which you may do in a number of ways:

- (1) You have to choose at least 45 ECTS (90 CATS) of the modules marked as 'optional compulsory', although you may want to take up the full 60 ECTS (120 CATS) from this list.
Most of these modules run over two semesters and will be assessed in May/June.
- (2) You may choose no more than 15 ECTS (30 CATS) from all other PG modules offered by the Law School.
These modules are all one-semester modules and are assessed in January or May/June.

The Dissertation module is worth 30 ECTS (60 CATS) and is Core which means that you must pass it to be awarded the LLM.

The programme can be studied either full-time over 12 months or part-time over 24 months. For full-time study you will complete the taught modules between October and June and then you will complete a supervised dissertation on a topic of your choice between June and September. For part-time study you will generally take 30 ECTS (60 CATS) in each year and also complete a supervised dissertation on a topic of your choice in your second year.

It should be noted that the running of any option module within the programme depends on availability of staff and occasionally some modules may not be offered.

Summary structure of the programme

See Appendix 3

Assessment mapping

See Appendix 2

Additional costs

You are responsible for meeting the cost of essential textbooks – shown as Mandatory in the module profiles, and of producing such essays, assignments, and dissertations as are required to fulfil the academic requirements for each programme of study. Costs that students registered for this programme typically also have to pay for are included in Appendix 4.

Progression requirements

The programme follows the University's regulations for Progression, Determination and Classification of Results: Standalone Masters programmes as set out in the University Calendar.

Intermediate exit points

You will be eligible for an interim exit award if you complete part of the programme but not all of it, as follows:

Qualification	Minimum overall credit in ECTS (CATS) credits	Minimum ECTS (CATS) credits required at level of award
Postgraduate Diploma	at least 60 (120)	45 (90)
Postgraduate Certificate	at least 30 (60)	20 (40)

The PG Certificate and PG Diploma will be awarded at Pass level only, i.e. you cannot be awarded a Merit or Distinction for them no matter what grades you achieve in the relevant modules.

For PG Certificate and PG Diploma you will not receive a named award, no matter which modules, even compulsory ones, which you have passed

All learning outcomes, other than A4 and B5, will be fulfilled by students exiting with a PG Certificate or Diploma. However, you may have achieved other learning outcomes to a lesser depth and/or with not as wide a scope than if you had been awarded the full LLM.

Support for student learning

There are facilities and services to support your learning some of which are accessible to students across the University and some of which will be geared more particularly to students in your particular Faculty or discipline area.

The University provides:

- library resources, including extensive e-books, on-line journals and databases, which are comprehensive and up-to-date; together with assistance from Library staff to enable you to make the best use of these resources
- high speed access to online electronic learning resources on the Internet from dedicated PC Workstations onsite and from your own devices; laptops, smartphones and tablet PCs via the University wireless network. There is a wide range of application software available from the Student Public Workstations.
- computer accounts which will connect you to a number of learning technologies for example, the Blackboard virtual learning environment (which facilitates online learning and access to specific learning resources)
- standard ICT tools such as Email, secure filestore and calendars.
- access to key information through the MySouthampton Student Mobile Portal which delivers timetables, Module information, Locations, Tutor details, Library account, bus timetables etc. while you are on the move.
- IT support through a comprehensive website, telephone and online ticketed support and a dedicated helpdesk in the Hartley Library.
- Enabling Services offering support services and resources via a triage model to access crisis management, mental health support and counselling.
- assessment and support (including specialist IT support) facilities if you have a disability, long term health problem or Specific Learning Difficulty (e.g. dyslexia)
- the Student Services Centre (SSC) to assist you with a range of general enquiries including financial matters, accommodation, exams, graduation, student visas, ID cards
- Career Destinations, advising on job search, applications, interviews, paid work, volunteering and internship opportunities and getting the most out of your extra-curricular activities alongside your degree programme when writing your CV
- Other support that includes health services (GPs), chaplaincy (for all faiths) and 'out of hours' support for students in Halls (18.00-08.00)
- a Centre for Language Study, providing assistance in the development of English language and study skills for non-native speakers.

SUSU provides:

- an academic student representation system, consisting of Course Representatives, Academic Presidents, Faculty Officers and the Vice-President Education; SUSU provides training and support for all these representatives, whose role is to represent students' views to the University.
- opportunities for extracurricular activities and volunteering
- an Advice Centre offering free and confidential advice including support if you need to make an academic appeal
- Support for student peer-to-peer groups, such as Nightline.

Associated with your programme you will be able to access:

- advice and guidance on academic matters from your personal academic tutor;
- support from the Senior LLM Tutor on general welfare issues and how to access a wide range of University services;

- a programme handbook with study skills advice, course documentation and examination regulations;
- an English Study Skills course for the LLM programme for non-native speakers of English;
- a one week introduction to Common Law;
- access to the Faculty/School's SharePoint site, e-learning resources on Blackboard, and student e mail;
- up-to-date library resources;
- computing facilities.

Methods for evaluating the quality of teaching and learning

You will have the opportunity to have your say on the quality of the programme in the following ways:

- Completing student evaluation surveys for each module of the programme
- Acting as a student representative on various committees, e.g. Staff: Student Liaison Committees, Faculty Programmes Committee OR providing comments to your student representative to feedback on your behalf.
- Serving as a student representative on Faculty Scrutiny Groups for programme validation
- Taking part in programme validation meetings by joining a panel of students to meet with the Faculty Scrutiny Group

The ways in which the quality of your programme is checked, both inside and outside the University, are:

- Regular module and programme reports which are monitored by the Faculty
- Programme validation, normally every five years.
- External examiners, who produce an annual report
- A national Research Excellence Framework (our research activity contributes directly to the quality of your learning experience)
- Higher Education Review by the Quality Assurance Agency for Higher Education

Career opportunities

Our statistics say that 80% of our students find jobs within 6/8 months after they finish the LLM. LLM Maritime Law graduates are usually recruited by law firms in the UK and overseas, claims management firms in the UK, businesses such as ship owners, shipping firms, banks, private companies and various other employers (e.g., insurance brokers).

Whatever your situation, the Career Destinations service offers a wide range of services and support for postgraduate students. Visit the Career Destinations website for more details.

In the Southampton Law School we recognise that securing or advancing your career upon graduation is very important to you and there are a number of events which give you the opportunity to meet and network with experts in the shipping, commercial and maritime industries. These include:

- The Wednesday Practitioner Seminar programme in which eminent speakers from the shipping and maritime industry come and deliver lectures and seminars on a wide range of topics;
- The Law Careers Fair in November, to which some shipping companies as well as Law firms are invited. For further information as well as details on where to look for vacancies and opportunities you should visit the Career Destinations website

External Examiners(s) for the programme

Name	Institution
Professor Joan Loughrey	University of Leeds
Dr Russel Buchan	University of Sheffield
Ms Tabetha Kurtz-Shefford	University of Swansea

Students must not contact External Examiner(s) directly, and external examiners have been advised to refer any such communications back to the University. Students should raise any general queries about the assessment and examination process for the programme with their Course Representative, for consideration through Staff-Student Liaison Committee in the first instance, and Student representatives on Staff-Student Liaison Committees will have the opportunity to consider external examiners' reports as part of the University's quality assurance process.

External examiners do not have a direct role in determining results for individual students, and students wishing to discuss their own performance in assessment should contact their personal tutor in the first instance.

Please note: This specification provides a concise summary of the main features of the programme and the learning outcomes that a typical student might reasonably be expected to achieve and demonstrate if s/he takes full advantage of the learning opportunities that are provided. More detailed information can be found in the programme handbook (or other appropriate guide) or online at <http://www.southampton.ac.uk/law/index.page>

As a research-led University, we undertake a continuous review of our programmes to ensure quality enhancement and to manage our resources. As a result, this programme may be revised during a student's period of registration; however, any revision will be balanced against the requirement that the student should receive the educational service expected. Please read our Disclaimer to see why, when and how changes may be made to a student's programme.

Programmes and major changes to programmes are approved through the University's programme validation process which is described in the University's Quality handbook.

LLM Maritime Law additional costs

Students are responsible for meeting the cost of essential textbooks, and of producing such essays, assignments, laboratory reports and dissertations as are required to fulfil the academic requirements for each programme of study. In addition to this, students registered for this programme typically also have to pay for:

- Books and Stationery Equipment
- Printing and Photocopying Costs (such as Printing coursework for submission, Printing and binding dissertations or theses, Academic Poster (A1) printing).
- Replacing lost student ID cards
- Costs of attending a graduation ceremony (e.g. hiring a gown for graduation).

In some cases you'll be able to choose modules (which may have different costs associated with that module) which will change the overall cost of a programme to you. Details of such costs will be listed in the Module Profile. Please also ensure you read the section on additional costs in the University's Fees, Charges and Expenses Regulations in the University Calendar available at <http://www.calendar.soton.ac.uk/>
