Programme Overview

Brief outline of the programme

The MA Luxury Brand Management programme is designed to provide you with strategic luxury related knowledge, specialist luxury skills as well as industry knowledge and expertise to help develop your career in the luxury industry. The programme will provide you with skills in the management, marketing and strategic development of luxury brands. You will have the opportunity to develop your understanding of a range of contemporary issues in the luxury sector. You will study a range of topics to develop your knowledge and understanding of strategic luxury marketing and management related topics. In addition, you will gain insight into the ever evolving and fluctuating notion of luxury. Also, the paradoxical nature of luxury in the past and present is explored through various themes throughout the course. The course also offers two luxury study trips to London and Paris, where you will visit luxury brands and interact with the luxury industry, giving you the opportunity to network. In addition, guest speakers are an integral part of the course.

There is also the opportunity to interact with various luxury brands through consultancy projects and trips to visit luxury brands. The structure of the course gives you the opportunity to explore the fundamentals of luxury as well as develop skills and understanding in a professional and academic context through the core units of luxury management and professional and academic skills module. The programme will provide you with an introduction to luxury, understanding the key principles and practices in the luxury context, including corporate strategy, luxury strategic management and marketing as well as looking at the semantic and consumption values of luxury as well as luxury design. In addition, you will explore the design and creative agendas of luxury brands, as well as critiquing the semiotics of luxury in the past, present and future.

Your contact hours will vary depending on your module/option choices. Full information about contact hours is provided in individual module profiles.

Learning and teaching

The Faculty promotes a student-centred approach and this programme uses teaching and learning strategies that will support you to develop into expert post-graduate level design management professionals.

Teaching and learning methods include: lectures and tutorials, collaborative on-line learning groups, facilitated discussions, guest speaker presentations and self-directed study, staff and student-led seminars and case study analysis as well as luxury focused workshops on different luxury markets. These methods are designed to integrate theory and practice, to foster a spirit of enquiry, promote collaborative learning and meet a range of learner needs and styles. Key transferable skills are encouraged via the learning and teaching activities throughout the programme. An overview of the learning relationship between you and the University is provided in the University of Southampton Student Charter. The Faculty and School of Art is committed to supporting you to enable you to fulfil your academic and personal potential. We will work with you to facilitate your learning, within a multi-cultural context underpinned by mutual respect.

Assessment

Throughout the programme you will be involved in learning through assessment. Assessment tasks will be formative and summative: formative assessment is not marked and is designed to enable you to gain from self-evaluation, peer and academic verbal and written feedback, in order to improve your work for the summative assessment.

The summative assessment includes a range of assignments used to enable you to demonstrate the achievement of intended learning outcomes. Assessment is designed to help you demonstrate your knowledge, critical understanding and application of essential concepts of luxury brand management at a strategic level. Within the programme modules the approach to assessment is designed to enable you to integrate theory and practice, maximise your skills of critical thinking and analysis, and develop your understanding of creative industry management in relation to your profession.

Special Features of the programme

A particular feature of the programme are the luxury brand trips to both London and Paris. These trips run over semester one and two and students will have the opportunity to visit key luxury brands, where private talks are delivered to students, both trips are included within the course fees. In addition, students have the opportunity to undertake live consultancy projects with key luxury brands, enabling students to work with luxury brands on live issues and briefs. Where possible, luxury guests deliver specialist luxury lectures throughout semester 1 and 2. Key luxury texts are also provided to students to facilitate core luxury learning.

Please note: As a research-led University, we undertake a continuous review of our programmes to ensure quality enhancement and to manage our resources. As a result, this programme may be revised during a student’s period of registration; however, any revision will be balanced against the requirement that the student should receive the educational service expected. Please read our Disclaimer to see why, when and how changes may be made to a student’s programme.

Programmes and major changes to programmes are approved through the University’s programme validation process which is described in the University's Quality handbook.
Educational Aims of the Programme

The aims of the programme are:

• To promote originality, insight and critical reflective abilities
• To apply a range of techniques and research methods to your specialist field
• To behave ethically and with integrity and a strong sense of social responsibility
• To develop a range of professional skills relevant to the creative industries including the use of digital tools
• To take responsibility for independent learning and continuing professional development
• To enable an international perspective with a critical awareness of current issues and developments in your subject and profession

Programme Learning Outcomes

Having successfully completed this programme you will be able to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of:

Knowledge and Understanding

On successful completion of this programme you will have knowledge and understanding of:

A1. current theories and practices arising from your in-depth research and enquiry
A2. the challenges of leading and managing creativity in global contexts and multidisciplinary teams
A3. systematic insight into organisations and professional skills relevant to the creative economy
A4. the contemporary context and culture of luxury brands and the creative industries
A5. ethical and sustainability debates relevant to luxury brand management issues and employability
A6. a range of contemporary contexts relevant to the global creative industries and informed by leading research

Teaching and Learning Methods

The programme employs a variety of learning and teaching methods designed to recognise different learning styles and support you in developing and achieving the learning outcomes. Engagement with academic staff, guest speakers and industry-related opportunities will enhance the currency of syllabus content and help establish in-depth knowledge of such organisations and the creative economy, with particular reference to professional skills.

You will be expected to take an active role in your learning and one of the many benefits of this approach is that it enables you to reflect on the continuum of knowledge acquisition whilst enabling you to apply this within your context. You will be expected to be reflective and self-aware of your learning needs and those of others who may have different perspectives and backgrounds.

You will develop your knowledge and understanding through staff-led teaching and independent learning time.

Teaching methods will include:

• Lectures
• Interactive workshops
• Research skills inductions
• Tutor-led seminars
• Student-led seminars
• Tutorials
Learning methods, that include independent learning during non-contact time, will include:

- reflection on verbal or written feedback: this may be verbal or written offered during seminars, tutorials, group activities
- evaluation of feedback: this may take the form of reflective formative tasks
- group and collaborative projects and tasks
- optional study visits
- independent research and investigation
- online reference material research
- peer group learning and peer assessment tasks
- problem-solving activities
- class discussion/critiques
- student presentations

Assessment Methods

The programme will employ a range of assessment and feedback approaches to ensure that the assessment strategy is progressive in complexity and enables you to achieve the learning outcomes whilst enhancing your learning experiences.

Formative (not-marked) assessment will be undertaken at key stages within the taught Semesters 1 and 2, in order to provide you with the ability to evaluate your learning and address any identified issues in advance of your summative (marked) assessment.

Ongoing feedback will be provided from your academic tutor, module lead and peers.

Summative assessment of your knowledge and understanding will be undertaken through formal assessment of work. The assignments are designed to develop and test your growing knowledge and understanding of the subject area.

Formative and Summative assessment methods to test knowledge and understanding for the programme will include:

- Oral presentations (group and individual)
- Written assignments (essays, reports, and a final project/critical paper)
- Digital and visual assignments
- Consultancy projects
- Business Reports

Subject Specific Intellectual and Research Skills

On successful completion of this programme you will be able to:

B1. think in a critically reflective and creative manner

B2. research, critique and apply analysis of theoretical studies in Luxury Brand Management

B3. identify and analyse data and information to evaluate their relevance and validity using a range of sources

B4. organise and synthesise a range of complex written and visual information arising from new and changing situations

B5. recognise your own academic strengths and weaknesses, reflecting on your performance and progress and be able to respond to feedback

B6. apply critical judgement to advance your research and intellectual skills
Teaching and Learning Methods

Similarly, to your knowledge and understanding skills, you will be provided with resources to enable you to further develop your knowledge base encouraging Masters level thinking with the possibility of progressing to doctoral level after completing this programme. The teaching and learning strategies are the same as above with a focus on a variety of face-to-face contact and online learning and teaching methods.

The programme employs a variety of learning and teaching methods designed to recognise different learning styles and support you in developing and achieving critical, reflective and research learning outcomes appropriate to Masters’ level. You will be expected to develop an increasingly self-aware approach to learning, managing your learning progress. Teaching and learning strategies that will enable you to demonstrate application of critical, reflective and analytical thinking will include:

- lectures
- academic study skills sessions
- tutor-led seminars
- tutorials
- case study analysis
- visiting Lecturers
- Independent learning, including reflection and evaluation of feedback
- group projects and formative collaborative tasks
- study visits
- independent research
- online reference material and tutorial notes
- peer group learning
- class discussions

Assessment Methods

Formative (not-marked) assessment will be undertaken at key stages within the taught Semesters 1 and 2, in order to provide you with the ability to evaluate your learning and address any identified issues in advance of your summative (marked) assessment.

On-going feedback will be provided from your academic tutor, module lead and peers.

Summative assessment of your intellectual and research skills will be undertaken through formal assessment of work. The assignments are designed to develop and test your growing ability to research, reflect and critically examine topics appropriate to your subject area.

Formative and Summative assessment methods to test knowledge and understanding for the programme will include:

- case studies,
- presentations,
- reflective essays,
- reports
- visual displays

Transferable and Generic Skills

On successful completion of this programme you will be able to:

C1. take responsibility for your own learning development and academic integrity

C2. demonstrate ability to work effectively individually and in a team role, solving problems in innovative and creative ways

C3. demonstrate awareness of ethical considerations

C4. communicate effectively using a range of media (for example orally, in writing and through digital media)
C5. manage your time and resources as an independent learner
C6. evidence the ability to successfully manage and complete an independent project

Teaching and Learning Methods

Teaching and learning activities are embedded within all of the taught modules to enable you to develop your transferable skills. You will develop transferable communication skills using a variety of media, together with the ability to apply an understanding of ethical and legal frameworks to your work. This will be facilitated through academic study and professional skills sessions, tutor-led and student-led seminars and collaborative projects.

Engagement in individual and group work will promote your ability to take responsibility for your own work and critically reflect on it in a manner that promotes self-awareness and personal development. This will also provide an opportunity for you to work in unfamiliar contexts within a group or team. The Final Project module will provide you with further opportunities to practice working effectively and independently with limited supervision and to exercise your time management skills.

Assessment Methods

The methods of assessment are the same as the previous two sections with ongoing feedback provided from your academic tutor, module lead and peers.

The assessment methods are designed to enable you to demonstrate achievement of the transferable and generic skills learning outcomes, which will include your ability to communicate effectively your ideas and concepts, across a wide range of media, appropriate to your academic and professional context. Time management will be assessed through research proposals, where you will be required to plan your final project as an independent learner.

Disciplinary Specific Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this programme you will be able to:

E1. demonstrate advanced level knowledge of contemporary issues in luxury
E2. demonstrate a critical understanding of strategic luxury brand management
E3. evaluate complex ideas and justify findings through effective use of data and qualitative sources of evidence relevant to the luxury sector
E4. develop a critical understanding of luxury globalisation in the context of the creative industries and associated ethical issues
E5. demonstrate advanced level of knowledge of relevant communication tools, including digital platforms, applicable to the luxury sector

Teaching and Learning Methods

In developing subject specific knowledge in your chosen discipline, you will be supported by highly experienced academics who, as experts in the field, will facilitate you as luxury brand managers to understand the knowledge and skills required to confidently lead and work in the creative industries. This will include critically analysis and developing your ability to think about your creative and analytical thinking within a global design industry context.

Assessment Methods

As above, the assessment methods will include formative and summative assignments evidencing your advanced level knowledge and experience of luxury brand management. Ongoing feedback will be provided from your academic tutor, module lead and peers.

Programme Structure

Information about pre and co-requisites is included in individual module profiles.

Where optional modules have been specified, the following is an indicative list of available optional modules, which are subject to change each academic year. Please note in some instances, modules have limited spaces available.

Part I

Programme details

The programme consists of core, compulsory and optional modules. Taught modules are delivered in Semesters 1 and 2, while the Final Project module is a student-led independent project carried out over the summer period.

The core modules provide in depth knowledge relevant to the specialist concepts and methods of Luxury Brand Management. The compulsory modules consider a broad range of subject specific and employability related topics, from strategic marketing and management issues to design and branding techniques relevant to luxury brands.
Additionally, you will engage in academic skills related to conducting research, synthesizing and analysing data and writing up your work in accordance with academic expectations appropriate to this level of study. These academic skills are taught alongside general professional skills, whilst a separate ‘Contextual Studies’ module will provide you with an applied understanding and knowledge of issues more specifically linked to Luxury Brand Management. The Option module in Semester 2 provides you with an opportunity to further enhance the career-orientation of your studies and tailor your programme towards your professional aspirations. You will be able to apply the knowledge and skills you develop on the programme through a Final Project, giving you an opportunity to develop an area of personal expertise.

Typical course content

The programme consists of core, compulsory and optional modules. Taught modules are delivered in semesters 1 and 2, while the Final Project module is a student-led independent project carried out over the summer period, this final project will be in the form of a dissertation.

The core modules provide in-depth knowledge relevant to the specialist concepts and methods of luxury brand management. The compulsory modules consider a broad range of employability topics. Additionally, you will engage in academic skills related to conducting research, synthesising and analysing data and writing up your work in accordance with academic expectations appropriate to this level of study.

This is a full-time programme, covering two semesters as well as the summer period. The programme is composed of modules, each of which carries a specific credit value. You will take seven core modules, one of which is an option module that you can choose in the second semester, giving you the choice to look at different areas of luxury. You will also have the opportunity to undertake a live consultancy project for a luxury brand. You will be able to apply the knowledge and skills you develop on the programme through the final project module, giving you the opportunity to develop an area of luxury of your choice.

Examples of themes developed through the course include historical and contemporary perspectives in luxury for example how luxury has evolved over time, from historical to present day meanings and context. In addition, the impact of a digital society on luxury is developed, focusing on pre, current and post digital societies. Creativity and luxury brands as a theme is underpinned through all modules, investigating the challenges, norms and practices both nationally and globally. The strategic management and marketing of luxury is also investigated, ensuring students are well-equipped to enter the business world of luxury.

Information about pre and co-requisites is included in individual module profiles.

- opportunities for extracurricular activities and volunteering
- an Advice Centre offering free and confidential advice including support if you need to make an academic appeal
- Support for student peer-to-peer groups, such as Nightline.

Associated with your programme you will be able to access:

- A Personal Academic tutor and a Senior Tutor
- Programme handbooks
Methods for evaluating the quality of teaching and learning

You will have the opportunity to have your say on the quality of the programme in the following ways:

- Completing student evaluation questionnaires for each module of the programme.
- Acting as a student representative on various committees, e.g. Staff/Student Liaison Committees, School Programmes Committee OR providing comments to your student representative to feedback on your behalf.
- Serving as a student representative on Faculty Scrutiny Groups for programme validation.
- Taking part in programme validation meetings by joining a panel of students to meet with the Faculty Scrutiny Group.

Further details on the University's quality assurance processes are given in the Quality Handbook.

Career Opportunities

Graduates from this programme will typically find employment in a variety of different career pathways associated with Luxury, Luxury Marketing, Marketing Management and Brand Management. The various roles that students will undertake within this area include those of Luxury Account Handlers, Luxury Marketing Executives, Luxury Marketing Managers, Luxury Consultants, Luxury Brand Managers, Marketing Communication experts and a range of other executive/management level roles within the luxury and marketing industry.

Our graduates find employment opportunities within these roles either working for agencies or their clients and in some cases choose to operate as freelance consultants within their chosen career pathway. Many of our graduates also go on to start their own companies.

External Examiner(s) for the programme

Name: Dr Federica Carlotto - Sotheby's Institute

Students must not contact External Examiner(s) directly, and external examiners have been advised to refer any such communications back to the University. Students should raise any general queries about the assessment and examination process for the programme with their Course Representative, for consideration through Staff: Student Liaison Committee in the first instance, and Student representatives on Staff: Student Liaison Committees will have the opportunity to consider external examiners' reports as part of the University's quality assurance process.

External examiners do not have a direct role in determining results for individual students, and students wishing to discuss their own performance in assessment should contact their Personal Academic Tutor in the first instance.
Please note: This specification provides a concise summary of the main features of the programme and the learning outcomes that a typical student might reasonably be expected to achieve and demonstrate if they take full advantage of the learning opportunities that are provided. More detailed information can be found in the programme handbook.
Appendix 1:

Students are responsible for meeting the cost of essential textbooks, and of producing such essays, assignments, laboratory reports and dissertations as are required to fulfil the academic requirements for each programme of study. In addition to this, students registered for this programme also have to pay for:
